He has gone to the valley, and had fine success, and of course with his great talents done good. He and Hon Lynn Boyd have had a twodays' pitched hattle. It was a noble debate, and gloriously did the eloquent fluston hear himself and his cause in trimingh through it. It was courteously and fairly conducted. They spoke on elevated views and grounds. Histor's castigation of Boyd's attack on Prentice was withering, and his eulogistic presentation of Prentice would have made a less man more than be proud of himself. The hest spirit prevalls here.
